Primary teachers' interactive whiteboard practice across one year: changes in pedagogy and influencing factors

TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTERS

BIBLIOGRAPHY

APPENDICES

TABLES AND FIGURES

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

CHAPTER 1
THE INVESTIGATION

1.1 Introduction
1.2 The research questions
1.3 Structure of the thesis

CHAPTER 2
PEDAGOGY AND MODELS OF TEACHER KNOWLEDGE

2.1 What is pedagogy?
2.2 Teacher knowledge

   2.2.1 Pedagogical Knowledge (PK)
   2.2.2 Content Knowledge (CK)
   2.2.3 Pedagogical Content Knowledge (PCK)
   2.2.4 Curriculum Knowledge

2.3 Models of teacher knowledge

   2.3.1 Model proposed by Banks et al
   2.3.2 Model proposed by Prestage and Perks
   2.3.3 Model proposed by Nicholson
   2.3.4 Framework proposed by Alexander
   2.3.5 Framework proposed by Cox et al

2.4 Construction of a model of pedagogical change for analysis of influences on whiteboard pedagogy

   2.4.1 The model adopted to analyse change in pedagogy

CHAPTER 3
HOW TEACHERS LEARN AND THEIR PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

3.1 Activity theory
3.2 Situated learning
3.3 Communities of practice (CoP)
3.3.1 Relationship between cognitive and situated learning
3.3.2 Access for newcomers
3.3.3 Leadership
3.3.4 Personal disposition
3.3.5 The context of learning

3.4 Continuous Professional Development (CPD)
3.5 Collaborative CPD
3.6 Contextualisation of CPD
3.6.1 School policy
3.6.2 School culture
3.6.3 Teachers’ individuality

3.7 Situated learning in the school context and links to CPD
3.8 Summary and conclusions

CHAPTER 4
DESIGN METHODOLOGY AND DATA ANALYSIS

4.1 Underlying paradigms and the research design 4.1.1 Qualitative versus quantitative methodology
4.1.2 Case study approach
4.1.3 Generalisation in case study research

4.2 Interweaving design aspects of the pilot study
4.3 Implementation of the research design
4.3.1 The school contexts: West and Nolan
4.3.2 The teacher contexts
4.3.3 Matters arising form the design implementation
4.3.4 Teachers’ participation

4.4 Methods employed in the research design
4.4.1 Interviews
4.4.2 Issues related to interview techniques
4.4.3 Classroom observations
4.4.4 School documentation
4.4.5 Research diary notes

4.5 Ethical and confidentiality considerations
4.6 The interpretative process
4.6.1 The role of the researcher using Grounded theory
4.6.2 Some issues surrounding Grounded Theory

4.7 Data analysis
4.7.1 Macro codes to main themes
4.7.2 Validity of the data
4.7.3 Triangulation

4.8 End of chapter summary and reflection

CHAPTER 5
ANALYSIS: WHITEBOARD PEDAGOGICAL PRACTICE, TEACHER KNOWLEDGE AND CHANGE

5.1 Perspectives on change in pedagogy

5.2 Change in Pedagogical Knowledge (PK)
5.2.1 Lesson planning and preparation
5.2.2 Classroom management
5.2.3 Children’s learning independent of subject matter
5.2.4 Summary of effects on Pedagogical Knowledge

5.3 Change in Content Knowledge (CK)
5.3.1 Teachers’ selection of resources for whiteboard use 5.3.2 Teachers’ reflections on use of resources
5.3.3 Summary of effects on Content Knowledge

5.4 Change in Pedagogical Content Knowledge (PCK)
5.4.1 Teachers’ change in delivery of content
5.4.2 Teachers’ reflections on Children’s learning through diverse resources
5.4.3 Teachers’ reflections on children’s motivation
5.4.4 Summary of effects on Pedagogical Content Knowledge

5.5 Discussion on change in pedagogy and links to practice
5.5.1 Teachers’ change of pedagogy in practice

CHAPTER 6
ANALYSIS: FACTORS THAT MAY INFLUENCE WHITEBOARD PEDAGOGY

6.1 The framework of teachers’ learning in each school
6.2 Effects of a Community of Practice (CoP) in each school
6.2.1 Outsiders and newcomers
6.2.2 Support from colleagues and shared practice

6.3 School leadership and learning culture
6.3.1 School leadership
6.3.2 The learning culture in each school and teachers’ beliefs

6.4 Teachers’ reflections on their learning curve
6.4.1 Motivation and time to learn
6.4.2 Effects on professionalism

6.5 One teacher’s personal disposition to learning
6.6 End of chapter discussion
CHAPTER 7
LINKS BETWEEN PREVIOUS WHITEBOARD RESEARCH AND MY ANALYTICAL THEMES

7.1 Interactive whiteboard research: links to pedagogy and practice

7.1.1 Flexibility and versatility / PCK: Change in content delivery
7.1.2 Multimedia, multimodal and multi-sensory presentation / CK: Selection and reflection on resources
7.1.3 Efficiency / PK: Classroom management
7.1.4 Supporting planning and development of resources / PK: Lesson planning and preparation 7.1.5 Modelling ICT skills / ICT skills
7.1.6 Interactivity and participation in lessons / PK and PCK: Understanding children’s learning 7.1.7 Motivation and effect / PCK: Effects on children’s learning
7.1.8 Reflections on pedagogy and whiteboard research

7.2 Interactive whiteboard research: links to CPD and Communities of practice (CoPs)

7.2.1 Teachers’ learning preferences
7.2.2 Support from colleagues and shared practice
7.2.3 The effects of leadership
7.2.4 Issues for future CPD

CHAPTER 8
REVIEW WITH THEORETICAL IMPLICATIONS AND INFERENCES FOR FUTURE CPD AND RESEARCH ON INTERACTIVE WHITEBOARDS

8.1 Review of my research: Whiteboard pedagogy in practice

8.1.1 Planning, preparation and classroom management: Change in PK
8.1.2 Selection and use of resources: Change in CK
8.1.3 Interactivity and understanding children’s learning: Change in PCK 8.1.4 Change in pedagogy as a consequence of whiteboard use

8.2 Review of my research: Influencing factors on pedagogical change during one year of whiteboard practice

8.3 Theoretical implications arising from ‘Whiteboard pedagogy in practice’ 8.4 Theoretical implications arising from ‘Influencing factors on whiteboard practice’

8.5 Inferences for future CPD arising from this thesis

8.5.1 Transparency of whiteboard practice
8.5.2 The place of expertise in using ICT
8.5.3 Time for learning
8.5.4 The role of the head teacher
8.5.5 The role of a learning Community of practice (CoP)
8.5.6 Teachers’ personal dispositions

8.6 Inferences for further research arising from this thesis

8.7 Reflections on my research

BIBLIOGRAPHY

APPENDICES

Appendix 4.3 Research questions for the interviews
Appendix 4.4 Further information on theory and my considerations in undertaking classroom observations
Appendix 4.5 The pragmatics of data analysis
Appendix 5.1 Resume of some teachers’ practice across the year
Appendix 6.1 Detailed case study of Rebecca’s whiteboard learning and experiences across one year

TABLES AND FIGURES

Tables

Table 2.1 Teaching activities, teachers’ personal dispositions and qualities of good teachers
Table 3.1 Success factors contributing to teachers’ learning
Table 4.1 Strengths and limitations of case study research
Table 4.2 Summary of research design
Table 4.3 Summary of teaching commitments by participants
Table 4.4 Major themes emerging from the data
Table 4.5 Research data gathered for this thesis
Table 5.1 Themes and macro codes from my analysis relating to pedagogy
Table 5.2 Sub-themes and macro codes for analysis of PK
Table 5.3 The use of software resources
Table 5.4 Sub-themes and macro codes for analysis of PCK
Table 5.5 Change in teachers’ pedagogy arising from whiteboard practice
Table 5.6 Whiteboard teaching behaviours that may present a change in pedagogical practice and a teacher’s knowledge
Table 6.1 Themes and macro codes from my analysis relating to influences on pedagogy
Table 6.2 Teachers’ training with the whiteboard
Table 6.3 Influences which contributed to teachers’ whiteboard learning arising from my research
Table 7.1 Comparison of my analytical themes with Smith et al (2005)

Figures

Figure 2.1a Teachers’ professional knowledge (Banks et al, 1999 p94)
Figure 2.1b My model of pedagogy: work in progress arising from Banks et al (1999)
Figure 2.2a Model describing subject knowledge (Prestage and Perks, 2000 p3)
Figure 2.2b My model of pedagogy: work in progress arising from Prestage and Perks (2000)

Figure 2.3a Conceptualisation of research on teacher thinking and teaching (Nicholson, 1996 p4)

Figure 2.3b My model of pedagogy: work in progress arising from Nicholson (1996)

Figure 2.4a Educational practice a conceptual framework (Alexander, 1991 p84)

Figure 2.4b My model of pedagogy: work in progress arising from Alexander (1991)

Figure 2.5a Overview of emerging framework: ICT and pedagogy (Cox et al, 2003 p28)

Figure 2.5b My model of pedagogy: work in progress arising from Cox et al (2003)

Figure 2.6 Theoretical model for teachers' pedagogical change

Figure 2.7 3D view of 'Theoretical model for teachers' pedagogical change'

Figure 8.1 Front plan of model of whiteboard pedagogy illustrating the difference between influences and change

Figure 8.2 Informed model of influences on and change in whiteboard pedagogy incorporating empirical evidence from this thesis

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to acknowledge the help given to me by my supervisor Professor Deryn Watson whilst undertaking this research. She not only supported my learning but also challenged my thinking and was generous in giving her time. I would also like to thank my family, friends and colleagues who have always maintained an interest in and asked about my research over several years. Finally I wish to express my appreciation to the two schools, Nolan and West and the head teachers and teachers I interviewed and observed for this study. Without their help and cooperation it would not have been possible to undertake this research.